

TABLET IN BLANDFORD

Historic Incident in Connection With Church.

EMBEDDED IN MARBLE

Kishineff Meeting to Take Place this Afternoon—Keeper of a Gambling House Fined—A Girl Arrested and Returned to Richmond.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
PETERSBURG, Va., June 13.—A Revolutionary tablet to be placed in Blandford Church by the Frances Bland Randolph Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. The contract has been awarded to Mr. Charles M. Walsh, of this city.

Major P. R. Lassiter, at the request of the chapter, wrote the following inscription:
In memory of the Patriots who planned, upheld and achieved the independence of the United States, 1774-1781.

On the 26th of April, 1781, in defense of this city, upon the fields overlooking this church, a small band of Virginia militiamen, commanded by Baron Steuben, bravely, but ineffectively, confronted an overwhelming force of British regular troops, commanded by General Wm. Phillips. The opposing general, dying soon after, found a last resting place within the shadow of this wall. Erected by Frances Bland Randolph Chapter, 1903.

THE TABLET.
The tablet will be a marble slab, seven by four feet. A laurel wreath will surround the inscription, and at the top there will be a raised shield of thirteen stars and bars. At the bottom of the tablet will be the insignia of the American Revolution, beneath which will appear the inscription. Erected by the Frances Bland Randolph Chapter, of Petersburg, Va.

One of the largest crowds that has been at the Academy of Music for many years is expected to assemble there to-morrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock on the occasion of the Kishineff sufferers. Former Governor William E. Cameron and State Senator W. B. McIlwaine will be among the speakers.

TAKEN IN CHARGE.
Upon request of the Chief of Police of Richmond, Maude Clarke, or Cox, was taken in charge by the police of this city this afternoon. The girl was found in a house on Third Street, and is supposed to have been brought here by a well-known Richmond woman. An officer from Richmond took the girl to that city this evening.

Theodore Glazier, charged with keeping a gambling house, was fined $25 by the Mayor this morning. He was represented by Major F. R. Lassiter, and an appeal was taken to the Corporation Court.

The Baptist Sunday-school Association of Petersburg, Ettrick and Manassas will be held at the First Baptist Church, in this city, to-morrow afternoon.

Mrs. Marie E. Morrison, the president of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities, in this city, will have a meeting of the association at the Mechanics' Library Tuesday afternoon at half-past 6 o'clock. Mrs. Morrison has been exceedingly active in this work, and doubtless there will be many interested in the work which will be present that afternoon.

Children's Day services will be held at West Street Church to-morrow morning. Clarence Nicholson, the twelve-year-old boy who was injured in the Seaboard Air Line wreck Thursday, is getting much better, and it is now thought that it will not be necessary to amputate his arm.

The funeral of Mrs. Pette J. Wilkerson will take place from the residence to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mr. E. Burton lost a child from Wiphtheria this week, and has several other children ill with this disease.

ARRANGING FOR SUMMER OUTINGS

The McGill Catholic Union will hold its annual outing next Wednesday at "Holly Brook," just beyond Lakeside. Every effort has been made to make the event a memorable one. Athletic prizes of all kinds have been arranged, and prizes will be awarded to the winners. A game of ball between the East End and the West End has been provided. Another feature will be the tug war between the married men and the single men.

The Sunday-school of the Broad-Street Methodist Church will go to Buckrope Beach next Wednesday. Indications point to a large turnout.

The Sunday-school of All-Saints' Sunday-schools will run an excursion to Old Point and Ocean View on Friday, June 19th, and the children and their many friends of the two schools are looking forward to a day of much pleasure.

The Sunday-school of Laurel-Street Methodist Church will have its annual picnic this year at Buckrope Beach, and will leave for the picnic at 8 o'clock.

St. James' Methodist Sunday-school will give its annual picnic June 16th to West Point. This will be the first picnic to West Point after the closing of the public schools, and a large crowd is expected. The train will leave the Southern Depot at 8:30 in the morning, and returning, leave West Point at 7 o'clock in the evening.

Miss Roberts' School.
Miss Roberts' school closed Saturday, and pupils returned to their homes on their teachers, as well as themselves.

The excelsior medal was won by Dallas Chesterman Lee. (Only two have been given in the school.) The following received scholarships: Katherine Samuel Statten, Howerton A. Gratz, Willie Andrew Green. The reading medals were received by Ellis Irving Archer, Susie Barker, and Arthur W. Lee, Jr. Leonard Schmidt, Improvement, Marguerite Forge. Others who received high certificates in various studies were: Heinrich C. Luebber, Maxwell Tanner, Lyons, Clifford Smith, Jr., Arthur W. Lee, Jr., Marie Archer, Elizabeth Knox, Madge Kishineff.

For the Defendant.
In the suit of L. W. Harris vs. the Virginia Passenger and Power Company for $1,000 alleged damages in the Law and Equity Court yesterday the jury found for the defendant company.

Certificates Signed.
Governor McKim yesterday signed the blank diplomas for the graduating class of the V. M. I. for the session just ended. There will be thirty in the class, and the Secretary of the Commonwealth will at once send the papers to General Scott Shipps, the head of the institution.

A DESIGN FOR ARCH IN DAVIS' MEMORY

SINOR FRANCESCA'S DESIGN.

Senor Francesca Flores de Manillas, the young Spanish nobleman who entered the contest for the Davis memorial arch, has been recalled by the Spanish Government to his native country, and about three weeks ago sailed for his home in Malaga. Senor Manillas, who was exiled from Spain several years ago on account of being one of the principals in a duel with the son of the Prime Minister of Spain, has recently made his home in New Orleans, and during his stay in America has executed some remarkably fine artistic work. He was one of the exhibitors at the Richmond art exhibitions last year, sending both sculpture and paintings. Among his most famous achievements is the superb statue of Maria Pita, the Spanish Joan of Arc, which he was commissioned by the Queen and government of Spain to make, and for which the whole nation applauded him.

He is well known in this city by reputation, as he expected to submit designs for the Davis arch last June, but by an unfortunate circumstance in misunderstanding of the exact date of the selection, Senor Manillas did not finish his arch in time. However, he completed it, and during the last convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, held in New Orleans in November, he had his design on exhibition at his studio. His model has received the most favorable comments from well-known critics of art in this country and Paris, and his friends regret that he was unable to finish it in the prescribed time. The following description of the arch appeared in one of the New Orleans papers:

"The arch as designed by Senor Manillas is a composite of his studies in arch designs. It represents in bas-relief the principal incidents in the life of Jefferson Davis in the following order: Haranguing his Mississippi troops at Buena Vista; the assault at Monterey; the conference and surrender of Campudua; his farewell to the United States Senate; his appearance on 'the Field of the Seven Days'; his inauguration into the Presidency of the Confederacy at Montgomery; Davis, Lee and Jackson in council; his surrender; his capture; leaving the court room; the Capitol; the White House and residence at Richmond; Miss Winnie Davis, 'The Daughter of the Confederacy'; case-mate where Davis was confined. The keynotes in front of the arch are a large light-relief bust of Jefferson Davis. The spandrels are also ornamented with two figures, tendering laurels to the President of the Confederacy. One represents Prudence, and the other the virtues. The keystone opposite has in bas-relief the Great Seal of the Confederate States. The spandrels are also ornamented with the flags of the Confederate States. The keystone side arch is ornamented with a bas-relief of the battle of Gettysburg. The arch is flanked by two large supporting pines and laurels, and between them are the seals and coats-of-arms of each State; also a pair of bas-relief of flags and relics of Confederacy, and a bas-relief of the emblem of Constancy.

"The attic is ornamented with bas-reliefs of busts of the fourteen members of the first and second Confederate Cabinets, and an aragonut, which carries on its summit a wreath of laurels and olive branches. The body of the arch is Corinthian classic style, and the attic garish is composed with its base, while the top cornice of the arch is Ionic.

"Its dimensions are: Height of the archway, 18 meters and 50 c. m.; width, 8 m., and 50 c. m.; body width with pedestal, 30 m. and 40 c. m. Twelve Corinthian columns of the best classic style and two half columns, each with a capital, representing the Confederate States. The meter is equivalent to 3 feet 3 3/8 inches. Senor Manillas has taken his arch back with him to Spain, where no doubt it will be eminently appreciated by the connoisseurs of art in the Old World. The model of his wonderful ability as a sculptor and painter have been bestowed on this young nobleman from the United States. He is a nobleman, and he carries back to his old home the best wishes of many friends which he won during his stay in America.
